France, Tunisia Accept British, U. S. Help Offer

By PETER R. WEBB
United Press Staff Correspondent
TUNIS (UP) — France and U.S.-British offer to help solve U.S.-British dispute to help solve the Tunisian dispute. Tunisia immediately eased its blockade of 23,000 French troops.

First indications were the joint acceptance would mean a postponement of the United Nations Security Council meeting on Tunisia and the Algerian rebellion, scheduled for Tuesday.

The Anglo-American offer was presented in Paris this morning to French Foreign Minister Edouard Malraux by U.S. Ambassador Amory Houghton and British Ambassador Sir Gladwyn Jebb. The Foreign Office announced its acceptance.

The joint offer was presented in part jointly by U.S. Ambassador Lewis Jones and British Ambassador Edward Malraux to Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba.

A Tunisian government spokesman announced that Tunisia had accepted the good offices of the United States and Great Britain for the settlement of the Franco-Tunisian crisis.

Five Perish in Explosion, Home Fire

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP) — An explosion and fire in zero weather demolished a two-story frame house early today, killing five of the seven occupants.

All were members of one family. A man leaped from a second-story bedroom window and pulled his brother to safety. Both escaped with minor injuries.

Police Sgt. Fred Banks identified the dead as Virgil D. Oglesby, 30, Mrs. Oglesby's mother, and James H. Cooper, 58, her brother.

James Oglesby, 28, who escaped with cuts and bruises, told authorities he was asleep in a second-floor bedroom when the blast rocked the home. He said he leaped out of a window, then went back into the house and pulled out Bobby, 13. The boy was treated for cuts at Deaconess Hospital.

Danks said a preliminary investigation showed the explosion occurred in an oil furnace.

He has been urged, he said, to run again because more appointments for the two counties in the district, Chicot and Ashley, have been obtained than ever before. Phil Stratton, of Crossett, said when he filed for the post last week that there is an agreement for alternating the senatorial post between the counties.

Mrs. Stroud in Race for Tax Assessor

Mrs. W. I. Stroud well known business woman resigns from the deputy tax assessors panel and announces her candidacy for Tax Assessor in the forth coming Democratic Primaries.

Mrs. Stroud formerly lived in Hope where she was identified for a number of years with various civic organizations and was an active member of the First Baptist Church in Hope and Washington. She is now a member of the Washington Presbyterian Church. She is the oldest daughter of Mrs. J. E. Bearden of Washington and the late Mr. Bearden, well known Hempstead County peace officer for many years.

Mrs. Stroud was the daughter-in-law and bookkeeper for the late A. N. Stroud who for many years owned and operated 12,500 acres of farm land in the Ozan bottoms prior to the Southwestern Proving Ground. Her business experiences covers a wide number of activities over the past 25 years.

Prior to 1943, Mrs. Stroud was co-owner Stroud & Company, Washington Mercantile Firm. She was associated with the Washington Gin company and the Hengen Gin company.

Mrs. Stroud also served as chairman of the Washington Chapter of the Red Cross for seven years. She gave much of her time and efforts to the schools and civic improvements. She is also a active member of the Farm Bureau. Mrs. Stroud and her husband are among the counties most active farm operators.

She has always been known to take a firm hand against anything that would be destructive to her community and county. When the Way Dept. condemned approximately 50,000 acres of the best land in Hempstead County for the Southwestern Proving Ground, she was told by one of the engineers it should have never been located there, and it would be detrimental to the county. Since more than 4,000 families depended on this land for their livelihood and the county received a great portion of its revenues from the land, Mrs. Stroud and many of the land owners and interested parties efforts failed in getting it re-located but was assured had they been three weeks earlier it would have been moved.

She was born in Hempstead County and lived here all her life except for 3½ years spent in Louisiana.

Having been notified by congressman Hon. Oren Harris the Proving Ground lands would be sold in the near future, the Strouds returned to Hope following A. N. Stroud's death in 1940. In 1948 just before the lands were to be offered for sale the State of Arkansas filed a claim on said lands for a game reservation. Mrs. Stroud contacted the editor of this paper and discussed the matter, called a meeting of the former owners and all interested parties, and petitioned the Hon. Ben Laney, Governor of Missouri to request the State to withdraw its claim, which was done. All the land is now owned by former owners or other interested parties and a great source of income is derived from said lands as well as county revenue.

In announcing her candidacy for the Tax Assessors office Mrs. Stroud said:

"The appointed deputies of the Tax Assessors office are to be commended. I feel they are working for the interest of the taxpayer as well as the county.

"Each year it is becoming more evident that the Tax Assessors office needs to be and should be put on a business like basis and with a qualified assessor, not biased or prejudiced, taxes can be assessed efficiently and equitably at a nominal fee.

"It is my desire to serve the citizens of Hempstead County as your Tax Assessor in a moral manner. I will appreciate your vote and support and if elected your Assessor, I will endeavor at all times to serve you in a capacity that you will be proud of having elected me."

Schwartz was called before the subcommittee to explain under oath his charge that a "White House clique" had brought improper pressure on the FCC and other federal regulatory agencies to influence their decisions.

Southern Georgia Hit by Freeze

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP) — Bitter winter weather hit southern Georgia again today and put the freeze on any plans President Eisenhower may have had for outdoor activities.

The President arrived at vacation headquarters last Thursday on the heels of a snowfall and has yet to fire at a golf club or swing a golf club. He and Mrs. Eisenhower basked in front of the fireplace Sunday instead of attending church.

Medical advisers reported that the President's napping gold is improving but he has been advised to stay indoors for the time being. He is at the plantation of former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey for that he hopes will be a 10-day break in the pressures of office.

Finkbeiner Is a Candidate for Governor

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Chris E. Finkbeiner, a Little Rock meat-packer, became the first to announce his candidacy for governor Saturday night.

Finkbeiner paid his $1,500 ballot fee and filed his pledges with Secretary of State C. G. Hall, with members of Finkbeiner's family present in Hall's office.

Finkbeiner said he wanted it "clearly understood that I am not running against anyone. I am running for the office."

Gov. Orval E. Faubus has not revealed whether he will run for a third term, but promised about two weeks ago to make his announcement "within a month."

Chancellor James H. Pilkinton of Hope withdrew his name last month after announcing his candidacy last September.

Finkbeiner, president of the Little Rock Packing Co., said at Warren, Ark., last June, that he planned to run for governor, but had refused further comment on the subject until Saturday's filing.

The filing deadline is April 30.

The 37-year-old Finkbeiner is active in many statewide and community activities.

Judgment Set Aside by High Court

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today ordered independence county circuit court to set aside a judgment which said the Missouri Pacific Railroad owned track claimed by the White River Limestone Products Co. — The Arkansas Real Estate Co.

In November, 1955, the White River and Arkansas Real Estate companies, with the United Pacific Insurance Co., started suit against Missouri Pacific in Independence county circuit court to claim the tract. They obtained a temporary restraining order stopping the railroad from repossessing the track to Peter's Bluff where White River Limestone Company withdrew the case, however, and the railroad repossessed the material.

In May, 1956, the companies started suit again, this time in circuit court asking damages for wrongful repossession.

The Supreme Court in today's opinion written by Chief Justice Carlton Harris, disagreed. The high court said White River and the other companies did not give up an option to buy the track when they dismissed the circuit court case. The opinion said the railroad should have used different court tactics if, as it claimed, the companies had not proven their case.

White River valued the track at $3,000.

New England in Grip of Snow, Death Toll 223

BOSTON (UP) — The East Coast blizzard centered over northern New England today with sharp, intense, sub-freezing winds blew over its white wake on the hurricane path from Alabama to Boston.

The death toll for the 10-day cold wave that began Feb. 6 rose to 223.

It was a numbing Monday from week-end storm. In the Northeast where official depths of 42 inches were blown into towering drifts on gale force winds.

The worst snow in the nation, however, was outside the sweeping storm path in the northwest corner of Michigan. While a lake Michigan squall dumped four to five feet of snow, Drifts blew to 10 feet. Michigan and Indiana was virtually isolated in zero temperatures, and a full state of emergency was declared with old summoned from as far away as Chicago.

Boston Buried
Boston was buried under 13 inches of snow, a 24-hour fall that broke a 37-year record by 1½ inches. Up to 27 inches fell in suburban areas. Accompanying high tides forced 50 families from their homes in Quincy.

Blizzard-driven waters flooded homes along the eastern Long Island Sound and Connecticut shores Sunday and threatened the coast of Maine today.

In Washington, blanketed by 14 inches of snow, its heaviest fall in 22 years, all but the most essential government officials were there. The thermometer was down to 4 degrees and not expected to top freezing today. All schools were asked to take a day's leave to reduce the ice-packed traffic snarl, closed in the capital and its surrounding Virginia and Maryland suburbs.

Stassen Calls for Meet at UN Building

WASHINGTON (UP) — Harold P. Stassen called Sunday for a six-nation "summit" conference at the United Nations headquarters in New York—the sooner the better.

Stassen, who resigned as President Eisenhower's disarmament advisor Saturday to run for governor of Pennsylvania, suggested that U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld be chosen as "manner or moderator" of such a parley.

He said there was a "good chance" a new meeting of chiefs of government could negotiate a "sound, safe-guarded, first-step agreement" on disarmament. He also forecast other "constructive results" from such a conference. Stassen said any new summit meeting should include the government heads of the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Poland and Czechoslovakia. He did not say why he included Soviet-bloc Poland and Czechoslovakia but they presumably were intended to balance Britain and France.

Stassen made the statement on the ABC-TV program "College News Conference."

THE STORY: Although homicide believes Ed Owens, a reformed policeman was murdered during a holdup, Detective David Wintling believes something in the man's past brought about the killing.

CHAPTER VI

Austin stood up. "I think that's all. Thank you for your time, Mrs. Owens. And don't worry, we'll get the rats who did this." "Yes, I suppose you will. But that won't bring Ed back to me. Everywhere I look I see something of his, his looks, his clothes, his beard in the mirror," Mrs. Owens said, getting up. "Would you like to see his garden?"

"I'd like very much to see it," I said. Austin looked at me as if to say, "Shut up."

We followed her down a short hallway with two bedrooms opening off it, through a large clean kitchen, out to a back yard that was about 20 feet wide and maybe 30 feet long. Except for something growing under two old windows, it was just a lot of dirt to me.

She pointed to the windows which were about six inches off the ground and walled in with loose bricks. "This is Ed's hot-house. I think he has some tulip bulbs growing there now."

"There was a moment of silence (ill I asked, "Mrs. Owens, did you like being a policeman's wife? The changing hours, little pay, the danger?"

She looked astonished. "Why, of course I liked it. Young man, it was my husband's job. Some times I worried a little about Ed but he could take care of himself. As for the pay, it wasn't much, but then what job pays enough? Best thing was it being steady. No layoffs. My father was a house painter and always working crazy hours. And near every winter there would be months when he didn't work and we'd be worried sick. Why do you ask?"

"Just wondering," I said stupidly.

"Nice seeing your garden, Mrs. Owens, but we have to leave," Austin said.

"When we were in the car Austin asked, 'What are you conducting, a lonely hearts column or cops' wives?' Mrs. Owens, did you like being a policeman's wife? For crying out loud, Wintling, you're a prize dummy."

"The name is Wintling. What's so dumb about it? Everybody keeps yapping Owens was killed by a goon, a stick-up punk. May be. But he was in an alley and never went for his gun so it might have been with somebody he was friendly, like another woman."

Austin shook his head. "Now, not the Owens type. How long you been on the force?"

"Less than a year. So what?"

"You'll learn we haven't time to investigate every cockeyed angle to a case. Most times the common-sense angles are the right ones. Owens was held up, and by an amateur, that's the common-sense angle. Look, by this afternoon I'll be off the case and it will be left in the open files. They'll let it stand till we get a break. You want to speculate, a guy in a flying saucer might have dropped down and knocked off Owens."

"I'll be retired like Owens was someday and I don't want to end up in an alley." Not in a run-down flat with an ancient radio and the same furniture I had when I first moved in, I thought. Although Mom and Pa, their place is like the Owens', the inside of a poor museum. "You married?" I asked Austin.

"You starting on me? Sure I'm married."

"Who like your job?"

"Nothing. My wife isn't so hot about my job."

He chuckled. "Wives need a slap across the teeth now and then. That's my best advice."

I got up, followed him up the worn steps, nodded at the desk lieutenant, the sergeant at the switchboard listening to the calls from the post cops.

I went up to the detective room. A quiet joker named Larson was at the desk, doing some paper work. He told me, "Dave, your wife called. Wants you to ring her."

Harris (D-Ark.) told him the subcommittee would like to know what Colonel Moore's interest was in this.

The former counsel, who was fired in an intra-subcommittee row over the way he had conducted the inquiry, testified that Moore and two officials of the airline were partners in a shipyard in the Dominican Republic.

Resolution, Ordinance Not Same Thing

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The distinction between an ordinance and a resolution loses its force under the city commission form of government, the Arkansas Supreme Court said today.

The difference came up in a dispute between the City of Fort Smith and Jimmie Taylor, a plumbing contractor, over ownership of a sewer line which Taylor installed to a sub-division in 1952. The Sebastian Circuit Court said he owned the line, and the Supreme Court agreed.

The city in its appeal from the lower court contended it owned the sewer main under a 1913 ordinance which allowed owners of land not served by the city sewer system to connect to the system on payment of $150 per acre.

Taylor said he built the main under a 1952 resolution and kept title to it until he recovered the cost of construction set by the Sebastian court at $41,100. The city argued that the resolution was not valid because of the 1913 ordinance.

"The mayor and the two city commissioners sit together as a legislative body composed of three equal members with the mayor having no power to veto any measure. In these circumstances the traditional distinction between an ordinance and a resolution naturally loses their force, for the difference becomes one of form rather than of substance," said the opinion written by Justice George Rose Smith.

All justices participated in the ruling and none dissented. The Supreme Court also upheld a decision of a Mississippi Circuit Court jury which awarded $6,500 in damages to Charlie Jones, a 68-year-old Negro, who lives at Blytheville, Jones was hit on the head and shoulders in June, 1956, when an awning attached to the front of a cafe owned by Chaddah Abraham and his wife fell on him. Jones asked for $14,025 in lower court, but the jury awarded $6,500. "While the verdict for $6,500 is generous, we cannot say it is so grossly excessive that it may not be permitted to stand," the opinion said.

Rock, Flag Tossed Through Window

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A rock wrapped in a Confederate flag was thrown through a picture window at the home of Mrs. Daisy Bates Sunday, police reported.

Leo Lorch, white professor of mathematics at Philander Smith College, told them he chased six cars of white boys from the scene but lost them about two hours earlier after bottles and stones were thrown at the house.

Mrs. Bates is president of the state chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. A stick of dynamite was found in an unused garage at Lorch's home last week.

Under the ancient Roman criminal laws, arson was a crime punishable by death.

was one of those one-way peep-hole deals and I heard it opening on the other side and a woman's voice asked, 'What do you want?'

"Are you Miss Rose Henderson?"

"Yes."

"You called the police a little while ago. I'm Detective Wintling. I said, watching my face in the peephole and feeling like a sitting duck. My collar looked wilted already."

There was a long moment of hesitation, then: "Please show me your credentials." The voice was deep.

I was off the Owens case for a looney like this. I took out my buzzer and nearly shouted it through the peep mirror. "That do it, lady? My name is Dave Wintling, Detective Third Grade, 201st Precinct. I'm assigned to your case. Now do you think you might open the door and let me get to work?"

As I was putting my shield back in my wallet the door opened. I was off balance with short girl standing there with very dark close-cut hair, huge eyes, a warm and pretty face. The tips were thick and red and she wore a loose plain blue smock showing off one of these built-up-from-the-eround solid figures, almost heavy legs. I must have been giving her big eyes for she glanced down at herself, then asked, "What's wrong?"

"Nothing. You're a surprise. Had you pegged for an old maid crackpot?"

"My, the frank policeman. This must be a new technique. You're a bit of a shock yourself, more like a college magazine sales man."

FLOWERS FROM ARKANSAS — KANSAS CITY — Mrs. Betty Woods of Monticello, Ark., pins a camellia on Mrs. Al Sheratt, Kenora, Ontario, Canada, during the Kansas City Boat, Sports and Travel Show at the Municipal Auditorium here. Snow swirled outside and the temperature dipped toward an unexpected low of 10 degrees, but the camellia, furnished by the Monticello Garden Club, suggested a breath of the Sunny South. The Camellias made such a hit that Mrs. Woods sent out an SOS for more. The Ladies' Garden Club of Crossett and the Men's Camellia Club of Texarkana sent additional flowers, which were given to ladies attending the Travel Show. Jacksonville Police Back on the Job

JACKSONVILLE (UP)—It was on again, off again for the four members of the Jacksonville police department Sunday.

It all started Saturday afternoon when Mayor Edward D. Schmitt sent dismissal letters to the four officers. The firings were effective at 11 p.m. Saturday.

The city council, notified of the mayor's action, met in emergency session and voted unanimously to re-instate the officers.

As one councilman put, "It was Saturday night and pay day at the air base and we needed police protection."

But Sunday Schmitt appeared at the city hall and appointed a new chief of police, Olson Kennedy, a construction foreman. He took over from former Chief of Police Clarence F. Garner, 56, chief of town marshal for 14 years.

Councilmen, meeting as Kennedy assumed his new job, told the mayor Kennedy would be in office only until the council's next meeting.

But when the next meeting will be is a question. First of all, Schmitt claims that only he can call such meetings. He said it was illegal for the council to meet by itself as it did Saturday night.

On the question of the firings, Schmitt said it was time for "a house-cleaning."

He also said he needed no approval from the council for firing police force members. The council told him he was wrong.

Indonesia Factions Are Battling

United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO (UP)—Leaders of Indonesia's rebel government launched an economic blockade of their rivals today by ordering U.S. and British oil companies on Sumatra not to do business with the Jakarta regime.

Telegrams sent to local representatives of the three major companies operating the Sumatran oil fields—America's Caltex and Standard Oil and Britain's BPM—ordered them to withhold both money and refined oil from Jakarta, the generally recognized capital of Indonesia.

The Jakarta cabinet scheduled a special meeting tonight to consider possible counter measures.

At the same time, it was announced that a rebel battalion seized the airbase at Padang in central Sumatra last Tuesday, presumably to prevent its being used against them. The announcement said the base's garrison of 50 airmen were disarmed, but made no mention of casualties.

Of the early maneuvers ordered by the rebel government, proclaimed Saturday and its rivals in Jakarta, only the oil blockade and a boycott of Sumatra's communications appeared likely to have any immediate effect.

There appeared to be no prospect that Jakarta could enforce its order for the arrest of 10 rebels.

It also appeared unlikely that a rebel order blocking Indonesia's foreign gold balances and other assets would be heeded by the countries concerned.

Jakarta appeared to have succeeded in cutting off most of Sumatra's communications, except for the rebel radio stations at Padang and Bukitting.

President Sukarno returned to Jakarta Sunday from a "vacation tour" of Asia, and orders for the arrest of the rebels were issued a few hours later.

Businessmen Getting Less Optimistic

By UNITED PRESS

Businessmen are somewhat less optimistic about the second quarter this year than they had been prior to the same quarters the past two years, according to Dun & Bradstreet. However, the survey showed that the majority of businessmen expected their company volume in the second quarter of 1958 to equal or exceed that of the like period last year.

There were 2,728 vessels, totaling 24,494,214 gross tons, under construction or on order in the world's shipyards as of Jan. 1, 1958. The Shipbuilders' Council of America reported. This compared with 2,830 ships totaling 35,061,879 tons on July 1, 1957, and 2,315 vessels of 29,248,256 tons on Jan. 1, 1957.

Production of paper and board last year reached 30,700,000 tons, a drop of 4.4 per cent from 1956, according to the American Paper & Pulp Assn. Rolling volume of the industry was 10.7 million dollars, within 1 per cent of the value of shipments in 1956.

Flat-rolled steel producers expect automotive buying to pick up in April, according to steel Magazine. Producers think the auto companies will reverse their policy of holding steel inventories to a minimum and will stock up for high operations at the end of a strike anticipated in June.

Hudson-Novak Combine Good at Boxoffice

By VERNON SCOTT

United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Movie-makers suffering the worst financial doldrums in film history, learned from theater owners for the day they could be back in the chips by co-starring Rock Hudson and Kim Novak in all their pictures.

Hudson and Kim were voted boxoffice champs in a nationwide poll of exhibitors by Box Office magazine, a movie trade journal. Neither star has drawn rave reviews for acting ability, nor have they ever appeared together in a film. Chances are slim they ever will, as long as Kim is under contract to Columbia, and Hudson is with Universal-International.

In the box office poll popularity, magazine covers and talent weren't considered. The stars were judged on their ability to bring in loot.

Award May Be Gold

No loving cups were passed out to the winners. But a suitable award might be a sackful of gold nuggets. To heck with artistic triumphs, says theater owners, they lose money. The pretty people are the ones who pay off in cash.

In almost every case screen heroes outdrew glamour girls by a homey winner in the lot.

Following Hudson among the top dozen money-makers, were William Holden, Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, Gary Cooper, Marlon Brando, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, Glenn Ford, Yul Brynner, Clark Gable, John Wayne.

Runners-up to Kim, who was replaced two years ago, were Doris Day, Deborah Kerr, Elizabeth Taylor, Audrey Hepburn, Debbie Reynolds, June Allyson, Ingrid Bergman, Ava Gardner, Susan Hayward, Marilyn Monroe and Dorothy Malone.

An odd note: La Monroe didn't have a picture in release last year.

Hudson Replaces Holden

Hudson, tenth last year, lifted the crown from Bill Holden. Kim, on the other hand, also topped last year's standings.

Back on the list after an absence of nine years, was Ingrid Bergman, thanks to her role in "Anastasia"—which won her an Academy Award Oscar.

Newcomers to the poll were Brynner and Dorothy Malone. Grace Kelly, sixth in 1955, made no pictures and disappeared from the list. Humphrey Bogart, who died a year ago, was 12th in the 1956 poll.

Brando, number 2 last year, were cut back further in various areas to combat high inventories. Among those announcing cuts were Sunbeam Refining Co. and Phillips Petroleum Co. Meanwhile, Sinclair Crude Oil Co. announced a series of price adjustments "to meet competitive conditions."

Ike Suggests Informal U. S., Russian Talk

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin today that the United States and Russia seem to have come to an impasse in trying to arrange a summit conference.

He suggested that it could be broken by "less formal and less publicized contacts" to determine whether such a top level meeting can profitably be held.

The President said the two countries were to busy writing speeches to each other. He questioned "whether we shall get anywhere by continuing the process."

The President was sharply critical of Soviet attacks against U.S. policy. He was especially critical of what he called a "rather bitter speech" by Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev in Minsk on Jan. 22.

He told Bulganin that the cumulative effect of the Soviet premier's last three letters to him, seeking a summit conference, "is to leave considerable puzzlement as to what you think another such meeting could contribute to a genuine settlement of our problems."

Consulting Other Nations

"Perhaps the impasse to which we seem to have come can be broken by less formal and less publicized contacts through which we would continue to seek to find out whether there can be a top-level meeting which, in the words of my letter to you of Jan. 12, 1958, 'would hold good hope of advancing the cause of peace and justice in the world,' Eisenhower said.

North Korean Reds Admit Plane Landed

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The Pyongyang Radio admitted tonight that a missing Korean National Airlines plane with 32 persons aboard landed in Communist North Korea Sunday.

The propaganda voice of North Korea made no mention of where the DC3 had landed after it disappeared on a routine flight from Pusan to Seoul in the Republic of Korea. The plane was piloted by an American with another American also aboard.

The plane apparently arrived over Seoul on schedule and then continued north without landing. It was tracked by radar as it flew over the Korean Border line and into North Korea. Radar tracked it as far as Sunan air base, 20 miles north of Pyongyang, capital of Red-run North Korea.

dropped back to the 6th spot, and John Wayne, a regular for the past eight years, skidded from 4th to 12th.

All-time champ is Gary Cooper, a consistent winner since 1936. Gable is another long-standing boxoffice king.

Both were on the 1956 poll, which included Shirley Temple (Number 1), William Powell, Myrna Loy, Paul Muni, Spencer Tracy, Jeanette MacDonald, Claudette Colbert, Robert Taylor, Ronald Coleman and Sonja Henie.

NEW DELHI, Feb. 16 (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had a final conference with Prime Minister Nehru today before ending his visit to India with a trip to Agra to see the famous Taj Mahal.

A source close to Nehru said the U. S. ambassador to the U. N. and Nehru discussed a wide range of topics "with special reference to chances of high-level talks to ease international tension."

MOSCOW, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Soviet Union is developing underwater television to study marine life and to aid navigation, the newspaper Soviet Fleet said today. It said an underwater TV camera has been tested successfully in the Black Sea.

BLANDFORD, England, Feb. 16 (AP)—Six men boasting they were members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army raided a British army supply depot today and wounded three guards.

They apparently were seeking arms. They fled empty-handed in an automobile when the alarm brought out 2,000 soldiers at the camp here. The IRA wants the six British counties of Northern Ireland brought into the Irish Republic.

CAIRO, Feb. 16 (AP)—Syria's army chief of staff said today the new Iraq-Jordan federation should produce another strong Arab army to help Syria and Egypt guard the frontiers with Israel.

Gen. Afif Bizry, considered hostile to the Iraq and Jordan regimes, spoke favorably of the new federation in an interview with the Cairo newspaper Al Gumbhurriyya.

"Whenever the Arabs unite, good results follow," said Bizry, who is in Cairo to work on reorganization of the army in the new Syrian-Egyptian United Arab Republic.

In the 1955 general election, a Conservative, who died recently, won Rochdale in a straight fight with Labor by a majority of 1,390 votes. In Wednesday's balloting the result was: Jack McCann, Labor, 22,133 votes; Ludovic Kennedy, Liberal, 17,603; and John Parkinson, Conservative, 9,827.

Even after the Rochdale defeat the Conservatives still have a firm grip on the House of Commons, with 342 members against 280 Laborites and 5 Liberals.

Prime Minister Macmillan, returning home from a 38-day Commonwealth tour that amounted to a personal triumph, faces the task of putting new heart in his Conservative followers.

The Conservative Daily Mail said he would conduct a prompt inquest to see whether Lord Hailsham, the party chairman, and Dr. Charles Hill, government public relations chief, had adequately presented the government's story to the voters of industrial Rochdale.

Hailsham denied to reporters he had been put on the carpet but said he was going to take all the blame for Rochdale. Privately, in the lobbies of Parliament, there were mutterings that the party would have to pull up its socks—work harder on organization and publicity.

Some policies of Macmillan's Conservative government are hard to sell to the public. The continuing tough credit squeeze, designed to protect the pound and fight inflation, is pinching home owners and small businessmen.

There is some concern about Britain's decision to build her own nuclear deterrent as added insurance for the West against possible Communist aggression, while providing bases for American rockets on this island.

Conservative sources said the government has no thought of reversing these policies. Only a few hours after the returns came in from Rochdale a defense White Paper stressed that Britain was building up a powerful nuclear striking force.

Hailsham and Macmillan said the Rochdale results were not going to bring on a general election. A general election need not be called until 1960, but Macmillan

A "Pleasant" Evening Splits Husband, Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother, brother and I have always been very close (though not too much so to be a cause of concern to psychologists). When I married, my husband entered wholeheartedly into the family, but my brothers have never been too friendly. In fact, she has at various times displayed emotions of jealousy. She has never invited my husband and me to her parties—which are frequent. When we visit her she's friendly enough, at least while my brother is in the room. Our last visit, a week ago, brought a series of wisecracks (while her husband was out of the room), aimed at creating dissension between my husband and me. My husband isn't speaking to me now because of things he was led to believe by these remarks. How can you combat a thing like this?

FCC Probe Is Likely to Erupt Again

By TOM NELSON

UNITED PRESS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House investigation of the Federal Communications Commission promised to erupt in new charges today.

Outsted chief counsel Bernard Schwartz was recalled for a second public hearing to tell "all he knows" about alleged improper White House influence and official misconduct in the FCC and other federal regulatory agencies.

His return came on the heels of these developments:

—A source on the subcommittee conducting the inquiry told the United Press "I believe there's something in the files" showing FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack switched his stand on controversial Miami TV Channel 10 award after becoming an FCC member. Schwartz has accused Mack of accepting $2,050 from an attorney for National Airlines, whose subsidiary finally was given Channel 10 with Mack voting for the award. Mack has denied any impropriety.

Wants to Investigate Schwartz

—G. T. Baker, president of National Airlines, demanded to be heard in the case and called for a sweeping investigation of a large number of persons including Schwartz, A. Frank Katzenbach of Miami Beach, unsuccessful contestant for Channel 10; Paul A. Porter, former FCC chairman and Katzenbach's counsel in the contested case; columnist Drew Pearson and his assistant Jack Anderson; and present and former investigators for the Rep. Oren Harris, chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said Baker will be given a chance to testify "at the proper time."

A published report in a New York newspaper said today that Mack, before becoming an FCC commissioner, recommended Katzenbach for Chancellor. A letter to the FCC, it said the subcommittee has the letter.

Mack, a Democrat appointed to the FCC by President Eisenhower, voted to award Channel 10 to Public Service Television Inc., subsidiary of National Airlines.

All Files Returned

Harris told the United Press today "It looks like we've got all the subcommittee files back. Some of the files of the group's

Bandits Get $100,000 in Cash, Diamonds

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Bandits obtained an estimated $100,000 in cash and diamonds at a discount store here Sunday night, police reported today.

Four men were believed to have been involved in the robbery, in which about $70,000 in cash and an estimated $30,000 in diamonds were taken.

Police said the carefully planned robbery "undoubtedly was the work of experienced professionals." They looked at a night watchman in a closet at the Government Employees Mart, located in an isolated area in the southern part of the city, and used an ac-behind-the-scenes inquiries were reported missing last week.

Harris said Schwartz, in his new role as a finger-pointing witness, would be asked a few "cleanup" questions about his charges against Mack before getting into the alleged White House influence. However, it appeared likely the Miami TV case might keep the center of the spotlight in view of late-breaking developments in the case.

Harris said when Schwartz completes testimony on the Miami case he will be permitted to testify on any other matters he had under investigation when he was fired last Monday night.

"We are going to let him tell the committee all that he knows," Harris said. "The committee wants all the information it can get."

"Influence" to be Aired

Asked specifically if this would include Schwartz's charge of White House "influence" on supposedly independent regulatory agencies, Harris said, "he'll have an opportunity to present that."

Schwartz said Tuesday that before he was discharged he was making plans to "bring to light the machinations of the White House clique in controlling decisions" of the agencies.

He said this "clique" included Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, White House counsel Gerald D. Morgan, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Col. George Gordon Moore, brother-in-law of President Eisenhower's wife.

The bulk of this week's hearings will deal with the Miami TV case. Four Miamians whose names were mentioned by Schwartz Thursday were scheduled to testify Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mack himself was told to stand by for a possible appearance Wednesday.

BARN-RAISING: Hammers, nails, saws and people build a plant

That's the story of Manila, Arkansas (population 2,000)—the town that landed an industry with an old fashioned barn-raising. Doctors, farmers, electricians, lawyers, merchants, housewives—everyone crowded in to nail together an industry that would employ a hundred. By remodeling an auction barn to suit the needs of an industry, the people—with no outside financing, no hired labor—did for themselves what no one else could do for them. They harnessed the old barn-raising spirit and energy that small towns have a monopoly on.

Swimming Ace Now at Fort Chaffee

FORT CHAFFEE (UP)—George
Breen is a fish out of water.

But Breen, holder of four world records in free-style swimming, can literally get back "in the swim" in April.

That's when the Luckawanna, N. Y. youth will be released from the Army here.

Meanwhile, Breen is training.
But not in the pool. He's undergoing a six-month reserve training session in Uncle Sam's attilery.

America's prodigy swimming in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, Australia, has trained for the last six years in the swim sport.

He plans to go right back where he left off in the tank. His sights, he said, are on the 1960 Olympics in Rome.

At Melbourne, he set records in the 1500 meter (17:52, the mile swim (15:21), the 800 yards and the 800 meter (9:19.2).

The 22-year-old Breen said his plans are to enroll at the University of Indiana where his swimming coach, whom he calls his "second father," is James Counsilman.

Breen has had a whirlwind career since he started swimming in earnest when enrolled at Cor-land, N. Y. State Teachers College after finishing high school.

Arkansas — It's Wonderful for Fishing

By PHILIP NEWMAN
United Press Sports Writer
Arkansas—It's Wonderful Fishing.

That's what it says across the top of the full-color advertisements which boost the state's tourist advantages in national magazines.

Of course, that's no revelation to the lucky anglers of the Wonder State, but those who should know say the fishing should be even better in the coming spring and summer.

"The best in at least five years," said Gus Albright of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission.

Why should the fishing be any better this year?

"Well, for one thing," said Albright, "last year's big rains have filled up all the ponds and creeks and there's plenty of oxygen and organisms in the water to support more fish this year."

Hatching Better
Albright also said conditions for hatching were better than in former years.

"You can look in large and small bodies of water most any place in the state and see big schools of small fish," he said.

"And a lot of the fish spawned last season are getting ready to be caught... or will be by this spring."

Albright said that in the past few years there had been a problem of creeks and small ponds drying up or reaching the point where the oxygen content of the water was so low most of the fish died or moved to "big waters."

"We don't anticipate any such thing this year with all the water from last year's rains," he said.

"There are places in the state where the rivers and creeks have been out of their banks and standing in woods for months."

The Game and Fish Commission has raised the daily limit on some species of fish this season.
Anglers can now take 20 crappie,
50 bream, 10 black bass, and 15 white bass. There's no limit on catfish—either bullheads or channel cat. In the trout department, six is the limit.

Three Trout Regions
And speaking of trout, the state is adding more water for the gamey beauties all the time.
Right now there are three main regions where rainbow trout may be caught. A fourth is in the experimental stage and fish bi

Photos of Hope's Defeat by Sheridan 62-60 Saturday Night

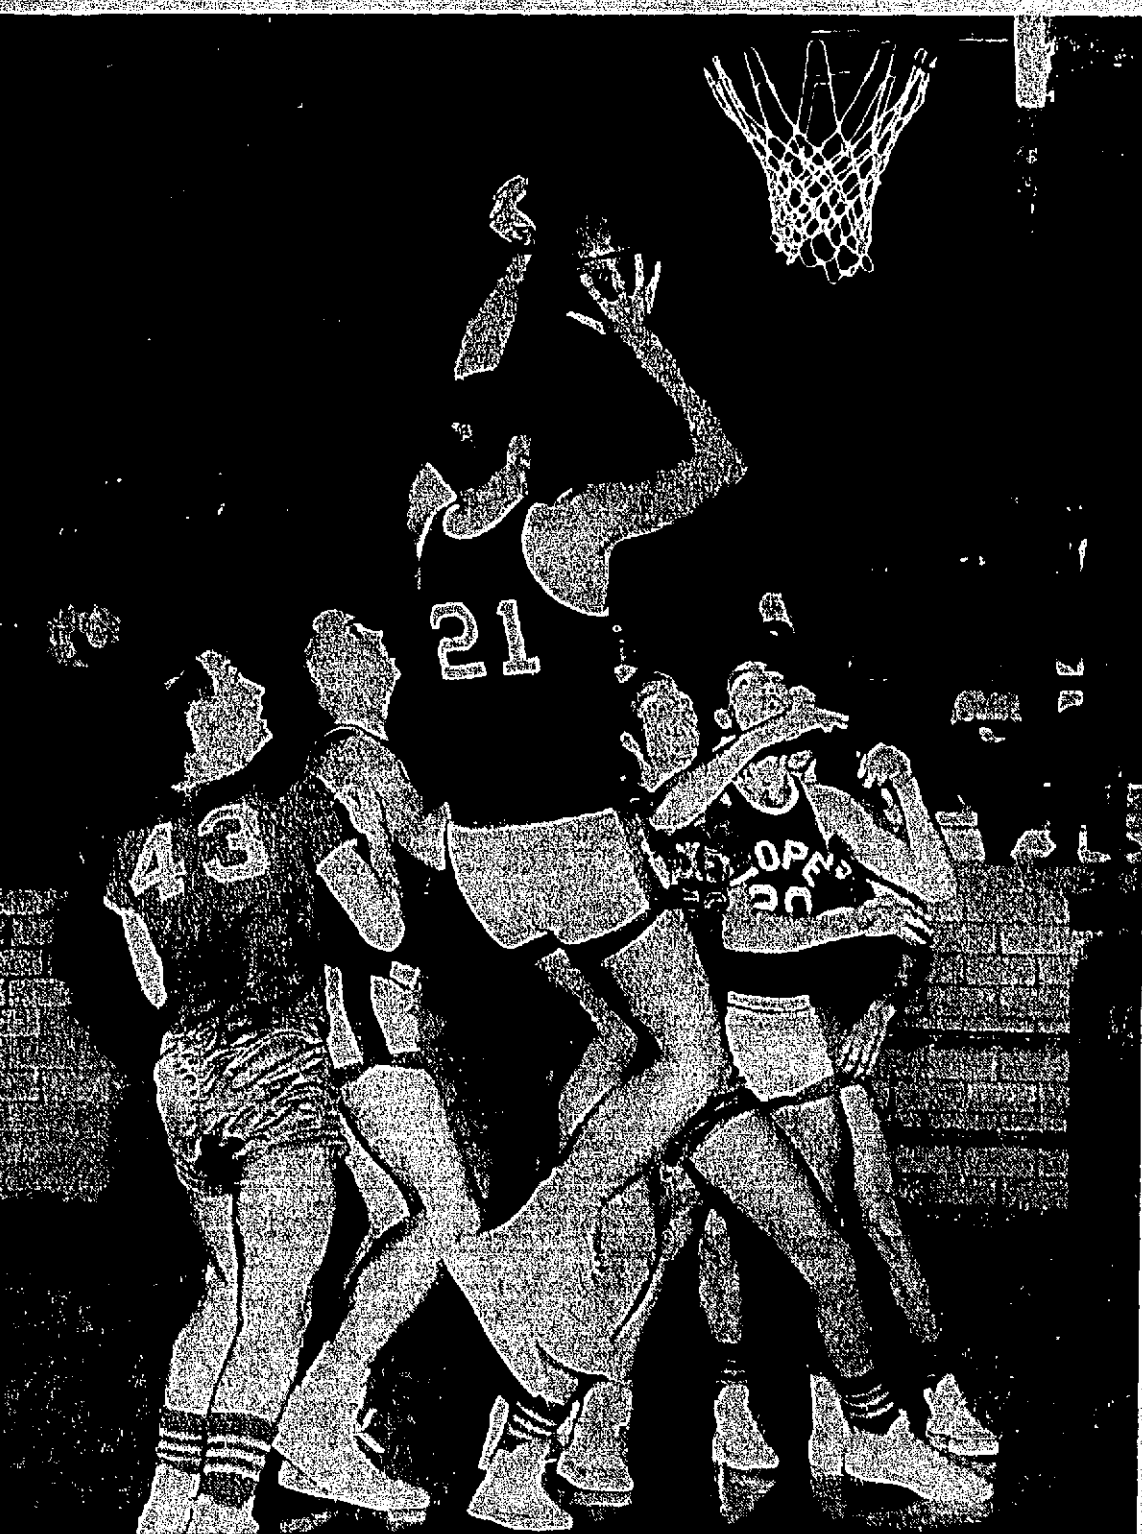

THE CASE OF THE BALANCING BALL — Hope Star photo. In the Hope-Sheridan basketball game, played Saturday night in Jones Field House, is portrayed here, and is typical of the action that took place throughout the game. Hope guard John Graves is

game ceremony Saturday night in Jones Field House. Other Junior high students in the court were: Pam Parsons, Sue Griffin, Tena Pilkinton, Dora King, Susan Booth, Jan Ellis and Mary Ann Russell. Their escorts were: Duval Moore, Roy Wray, Billy Bearden, James Hudson, Charles Carver, Graydon Anthony Jr. and Donnie Vaughn.

WIGGINS SCORES FOR HOPE — Perfect pose for a jump shot is demonstrated by Hope Bobcat center Lynn Wiggins (No. 21), as he pumps in 2 points against Sheridan Saturday night in Jones Field House. Waiting for a possible rebound are (left to right) behind Wiggins: Sheridan player Crouse (No. 43), Hope forward Jerry Franks, Sheridan's Humphries (No. 53), and Bobcat player Jimmy May. In background are Yellow Jacket players Forbes and Woodward. Close observation of the picture shows someone's hand on May's shoulder. . . . What?

'Spaceman' Experiment Successful

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP) — Space doctors and scientists today studied reams of technical data obtained from successful test "spaceman" Donald G. Farrell, who says he would like to follow up his simulated seven-day flight "to the moon" with a real one.

But Airman Farrell's parents in the Bronx, N.Y., promptly put a damper on the idea after learning that their son, after emerging from his week-long isolation in a sealed space cabin Sunday, had said "I would love to make a real trip to the moon."

"I would try to discourage that," said his father, James A. Farrell, an accountant with the brokerage firm of Bach & Co. "It would be much too hazardous."

Farrell stepped out of the three by five foot steel shell seven days to the minute from the time he was hermetically sealed in.

Ready For Another Month

With a grin he said he was ready to go back in for another month of solitude if necessary.

However, Farrell said one major factor was left unanswered in his experiment at the School of Aviation Medicine here to determine man's ability to face the monotony and boredom of outer space.

At no time, Farrell said, did he feel as if he were truly in space. In front of the chair he sat in was a panic button. A push on it would have caused the scientists, watching from outside the chamber to open the door and release him.

A man soaring into outer space would have no panic button to push if terror should overcome him.

Farrell, after a 30-minute conference and an impromptu speech by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, was hustled off to a hospital for 72 hours of tests, after which he will be flown to New York.

Slightly Wobbly

When he stepped out of the chamber, the airman was asked by a doctor if he was "wobbly." "Slightly, Sir," the six-foot, 181-pounder replied.

Farrell said he missed cigarettes more than anything else. The atmosphere in the cabin was equal to that at 18,000 feet, forcing him to use oxygen and therefore give up smoking because of the fire hazard.

He lost four pounds, despite increasing his caloric intake in the chamber from 2,500 to 3,400. This puzzled the doctors, who had predicted Farrell would gain.

Farrell said the "strangest thing" of the experiment was that when he tried to whistle to while the time away, he couldn't. This was due to the low air pressure.

her mother, Mrs. J. S. Chastain.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dalkymler returned Wednesday from Little Rock where they attended the summer fashion market and Fayetteville where they visited their son, Carl, a student at the University of Arkansas.

Mrs. Karl King Jr. was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Stark of Little Rock and was accompanied home by her grandson, Jonathan Stark.

Puts Condition on Proposed Postal Plan

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said today that distressed areas should receive priority attention in the enactment of any postal modernization program.

1. That the 175 million dollars would support the five-cent rate asked by President Eisenhower on out-of-town letters, but on two conditions:

Knowland told newsmen he realized annually in extra revenue be earmarked for modernization, and that a policy statement be attached aiming the program at distressed areas.

2. That a three-year time limit be placed on the five-cent stamp.

Postmaster General Summerfield told the Senate Post Office Committee last week the administration did not want any time limit imposed.

He supported a plan to earmark the 175 million for improvement of post office plant and equipment for three years. But he did not mention directing the work toward areas of high unemployment and, in fact, said it was not designed as a public works program.

Knowland said he hoped that a rate increase bill could be brought to the Senate floor this week or soon after.

If this is done, he said, Republicans probably would not make any effort to attach rate legislation to a pay increase bill for the 800,000 postal employees.

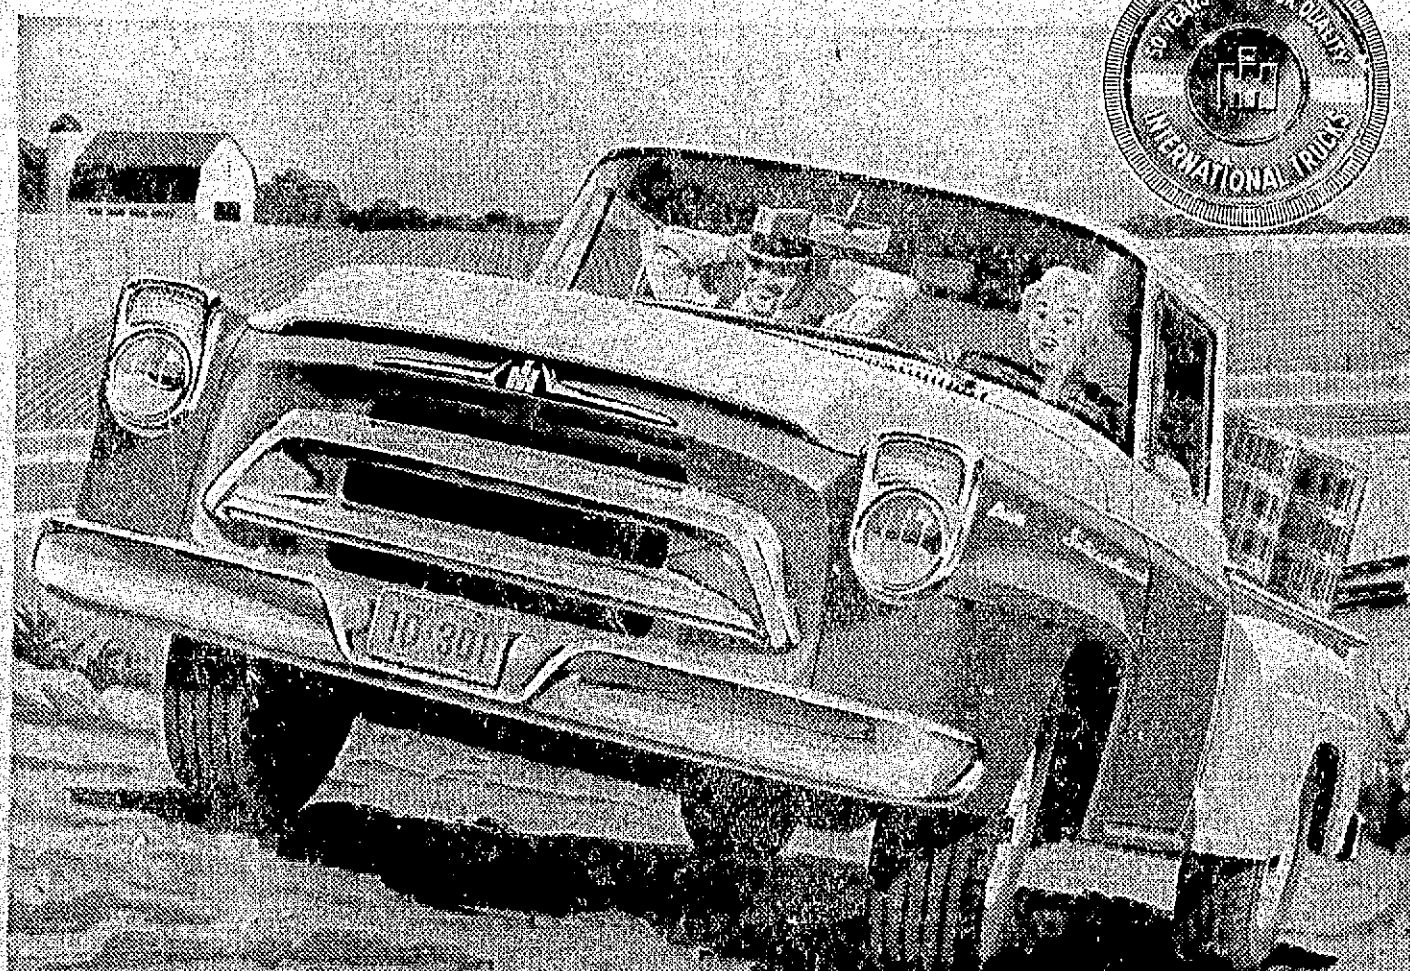

Bills raising the pay not only of the postal workers but also of a million classified civil service employees have been listed for Senate floor action this week.

SPACE DOG TRAINED

LONDON (UP) — A Soviet physiologist is training a second canine space-traveler, Radio Moscow said Sunday. Moscow said the animal, named Alf, "may travel into space in a new Soviet earth satellite" — but gave no hint when Sputnik III would be sent aloft. Sputnik II is still circling the earth with the carcass of the first space traveler, Laika.
